

Sean Lyons For President

01/26/2024

For Immediate Release

As a republican presidential candidate, a lot have asked what my goal is in this 2024 election cycle. I will stand behind the concept that many of these other candidates are of a new era of party searchers that doesn't fit to the party as a whole. I am one who believes in having a president who is someone that all can look to as a role model, while also being strong and be able to protect and run this country as a legitimate president.

I have been told lately that the constitution should not apply to everyone in this country, and that is something that just isn't acceptable, along with other's comments in name calling. I feel like we have tested the waters as a party with this ideology and it doesn't work so much so that it puts the party and America back 4 years at a time, even 8 years at a time, without the Republicans having a true direction and true compass of direction.

This new era of Republicans has run their course, or at least have gained enough steam to keep their political apparatus going where it has not lead to a true list of accomplishments. Those who got in early for the current ideology that most do not accept, have benefited the most in donations, but have not benefited the country or brought anything worthwhile to the Americans.

If we look towards the future where the current front runner will be a lame duck, we need to start finding other starters to begin bringing the party together for the benefit of all Americans and not be short sighted that aren't of a new era, to bring a wider resources and options to people of America who may love republican views, but not to the extent with all the other hay in the stack that turns people off from a true direction, that I foresee, that can work together with other ideas that doesn't actually create regulation and law to punishment the wrong type of beliefs.

There needs to be a broader more open system in the GOP party that brings everyone together and isn't divisive or devoted to, all though there is room for that, we need to think past the 2016 era that has run through almost a decade, and left some of us candidates knowing we can provide more for the long term, without hijacking a political party and energizing the dark corners of the party to defeat the best of the GOP.

That's why, I started my campaign earlier than I thought that I would, and later than I thought that I should. I want GOP and other Republicans, even wobbling partiers to believe there is a possible future to bring true conservative ideas to a free country to allow for a better economy, better security, and a solid future. So, please help get a rally going around another part of the party that also has opportunity and broader appeal across all Republicans and not just the longtime GOP executives. We need your support this 2024 election cycle and thank you for your ongoing support. A party is important, which gets people organized for all Americans, it just doesn't seem to work for those that want to cloak themselves in the Republican party which has never snubbed their noses at the constitution or the law in prior eras.

All The Best,

Sean Lyons
